

INDUSTRIAL CASE STUDY

GRAHAMS

COMMERCIALS.

Project Summary

Grahams Commercial, a family-owned business Scania HGV service garage in Carlisle, required their main service area to be repainted and had been waiting until a quiet period to do the work. When business showed no signs of slowing down, they called on us to undertake the work alongside their continuing operations.

The challenge was to prepare and repaint the floor in a rolling plan through each of six bays, so that only one was out of use at any time. Barriers were used to separate the redecoration area from the vehicle service area.

We used a grinder to prepare the surface then applied concrete sealant with a roller. Next stage was to apply 2-pack epoxy paint containing aggregate for increased traction. After the grey base layer was applied, a red walkway was added with yellow boundary markings.

The service pits were refreshed with white emulsion to maximise available light when working beneath vehicles.

The result was that a busy HVG Service Centre which had become dark and where the floor had lost its safety markings, is now much improved and a brighter and safer working environment.

“ Story Decorating Group Specialist coatings provided us with a quality service resulting in a high standard finished project in line with our programme and expectations. The Story team transformed our floor from a tired old oil contaminated floor to a new high performance floor & we managed to keep our vehicle maintenance bays in operation through the process. The Company had a great understanding of the project from start to finish and were good to deal with, I wouldn't hesitate in working with the Story team again on future projects ”
